

Feedback on Workshop 7

Listening to children's voices in relation to animal cruelty

We received 9 feedback forms in total.

How people heard about the workshop:

Email (mailing list) = 4

Facebook/Facebook event = 2

Twitter = 2

Previous workshop = 1

Word of mouth = 1

How people felt about the workshop:

Participants responded on a 5-point scale - We received predominantly 'excellent' ratings for different aspects of the workshop, with the remainder being 'very good'.

Met expectations?

■ Better ■ As expected ■ Worse

Learn anything new?

■ Yes ■ No

Responses to the question: What, in your opinion, would make the workshop better?

- Longer duration to allow for more networking and exchanging ideas
- -
- -
- Possibly more time for discussions
- Could have been a full day!
- A larger audience is always good but I know it can be very hard to reach people
- A bit more time for discussions
- More time
- -

Responses to the question: Has the workshop made you think about anything differently (in a new light)? How?

- Practitioners should try to engage more with researchers at an earlier stage as they could offer important insight to research design
- The ways in which children can be listened to and supported with regards to animal cruelty
- Mainly through discussions with different perspectives
- How I listen to young people in a classroom setting
- Has emphasised the need for different groups with different perspectives to work together
- Good to hear about new initiatives
- Yes. It's given me a bit more in depth knowledge about why children might hurt animals
- Yes, different listening techniques
- It really helped me think about the ways children can be approved with appropriate sensitivity towards their experiences

Number of people who know about:

Our website = 7
Facebook page = 7
Twitter page = 5

Number of people who have accessed:

6
6
6