

Conclusion

Well done! You have now completed this course.

Your Score is 100%
you have passed if you have achieved more than 80%

We have seen how we are all hard-wired to hold unconscious biases, and also how these biases can affect decisions and behaviour in the workplace, often with consequences that are bad for business, and for professional relationships.

So it is everyone's responsibility to be alert to how their inbuilt feelings affect colleagues and student, to challenge these, and to contribute to creating an organisational culture where everyone is valued, respected and treated fairly.

You have now completed the e-learning module on Unconscious Bias. We hope that you have found this helpful and interesting.

A summary of key points is available for you to download in the Resources section, along with the University's Dignity and Respect Policy and the Equality and Diversity Action Plan. We recommend that to learn more about diversity at the University, you complete the E-learning module 'Diversity in the Workplace'. Click here for more information.

A summary of key points is available for you to download. Otherwise, please exit the course.